Beaconsfield Squash Club Introduction to Safeguarding

Beaconsfield Squash and Racket Club is committed to making squash and racketball a safe and positive experience for its members. In order to protect everyone and particularly children and vulnerable adults, the club has Codes of Conduct and a Safeguarding Policy and Procedure.

What Is Safeguarding?

Safeguarding refers to the process of protecting children (and vulnerable adults) by providing safe and effective care. This includes procedures which are designed to prevent harm to a child.

Working Together to Safeguard Children (HM Government, 2018) are regulations which state that safeguarding is everyone's responsibility. Working Together outlines the duties of all organisations working with children.

What Is Child Protection?

Child Protection is part of the safeguarding process to protect individual children identified as suffering or likely to suffer significant harm. This includes the child protection procedures which detail how to respond to concerns about a child.

What Is Abuse?

Neglect This is when adults consistently or repeatedly fail to meet a child's basic physical and/or psychological needs which could result in the serious impairment of the child's health or development e.g. failure to provide adequate food, shelter and clothing; failing to protect a child from physical harm or danger; or the failure to ensure access to appropriate medical care or treatment. It may also include refusal to give love, affection and attention.

Neglect in sport could include a coach or supervisor repeatedly failing to ensure children are safe, exposing them to undue cold, heat or extreme weather conditions without ensuring adequate clothing or hydration; exposing them to unnecessary risk of injury e.g. by ignoring safe practice guidelines, failing to ensure the use of safety equipment, or by requiring young people to participate when injured or unwell.

Physical Abuse When someone physically hurts or injures children by hitting, shaking, throwing, poisoning, burning, biting, scalding, suffocating, drowning or otherwise causing harm. Physical harm may also be caused when a parent or carer feigns the symptoms of, or deliberately causes, ill health to a child whom they are looking after e.g. Munchausen's Syndrome by proxy.

Physical abuse in sport may be when the nature and intensity of training or competition exceeds the capacity of the child's immature and growing body; where coaches encourage the use of drugs or harmful substances to enhance performance or delay puberty; if athletes are required to participate when injured; or when sanctions used by coaches imposed involve inflicting pain.

Sexual abuse This is where children and young people are abused by adults (both male and female) or other children who use them to meet their own sexual needs. This could include full sexual intercourse, masturbation, oral sex, anal intercourse, kissing and sexual fondling. Showing children pornographic material (books, videos, pictures) or taking pornographic images of them are also forms of sexual abuse.

Sexual abusers groom children, protective adults and clubs/organisations in order to create opportunities to abuse and reduce the likelihood of being reported. In sport, coaching techniques which involve physical contact with children can create situations where sexual abuse can be disguised and may therefore go unnoticed. The power and authority of, or dependence on, the coach if misused, may also lead to abusive situations developing. Contacts made within sport and pursued e.g. through texts, Facebook or Twitter have been used to groom children for abuse.

Emotional Abuse Emotional abuse is the persistent emotional ill-treatment of a child so as to cause severe and persistent adverse effects on the child's emotional development. It may involve conveying to children that they are worthless or unloved, inadequate, or valued only insofar as they meet the needs of another person.

It may feature age or developmentally inappropriate expectations being imposed on children or even the over protection of a child. It may involve causing children to feel frightened or in danger by being constantly shouted at, threatened or taunted which may make the child very nervous and withdrawn. Some level of emotional abuse is involved in all types of ill-treatment of a child.

Emotional abuse in sport may occur if children are subjected to constant criticism, name-calling, sarcasm, bullying, racism or pressure to perform to unrealistically high expectations; or when their value or worth is dependent on sporting success or achievement.

Poor Practice in Sport Poor practice is behaviour of an individual in a position of responsibility which falls below the organisation's required standard (typically as described in the club/organisation's Code of Conduct). Poor practice may not be immediately dangerous or intentionally harmful to a child, but is likely to set a poor example.

Poor practice is potentially damaging to the individual, the organisation and to children who experience it. For example, coaching with alcohol on the breath, smoking, swearing in front of children, or not paying due care and attention to participants all constitute to poor practice.

Poor practice can sometimes lead to, or create, an environment conducive to more serious abuse. It may also lead to suspicions about the individual's motivation, even where no harm is intended. For example, if a coach is giving one child too much attention, regularly transports a child in their car, or encourages physical contact with children without obvious justification.

Bullying Bullying by peers can occur whenever children and young people come together, including within sport situations. Bullying can take many forms, and is harmful to the victim. It may be physical such as hitting; online or cyber such as abusive messages, comments or images on social media; involve damage or theft of property; based on someone's gender, ethnicity, sexuality or disability; or about their sporting ability.

Why You Need To Engage In Safeguarding

Having the right safeguards in place helps the club respond appropriately and keep sport safe and fun for children.

Safeguarding children in sport is vital to ensuring that they have a safe and positive experience. This, in turn, will contribute to children choosing to remain involved in sport throughout their lives.

Children and young people are the foundations and future of sport, the next generation of club competitors, officials and administrators. They are potentially the sport stars or Olympic medallists of the future.

Children and young people face risks in all aspects of their life – and sport is no different.

So, whatever your role in sport, as a parent, coach, volunteer or young person, you should be familiar with your club or governing body's safeguarding policies and procedures. In particular, you should know how to respond to concerns around abuse or poor practice.

Dealing with concerns and incidents

Reporting of concerns and incidents

All concerns and incidents of a safeguarding nature involving children or vulnerable adults should be recorded on an Incident Reporting Form and shared immediately with the Safeguarding Officer. If the Welfare Officer is not available the concern should be reported to the Club Chairperson.

The Welfare Officer is responsible for determining the route for further action to be taken (e.g. does the matter appear to be poor practice or possible abuse and action to be taken). The Welfare Officer is also responsible for ensuring that an Incident Reporting Closure Form is completed once the concern has been dealt with and resolved. Any decisions must be taken in conjunction with the Club Chairperson. See Safeguarding Procedure Flowchart within the Safeguarding Reporting Procedure policy for further information.

Action to be taken

In considering what course of action is appropriate, the Welfare Officer will consider whether the concern is –

- Poor practice/breach of Code of Conduct (low level)
- Possible child abuse/criminal offence (child protection)

In relation to low level issues, the concern may be managed within the club in conjunction with the Club Chairperson. In these cases, using complaints or disciplinary procedures may be the most appropriate action to take.

If the concern is potentially a child protection issue, the Safeguarding Officer will decide, in conjunction with the Club Chairperson, whether the matter should be reported to a statutory agency (Buckinghamshire Children's Services or the Police).

Further information on making decisions in relation to safeguarding issues can be found on the NSPCC website -

<http://the cpsu.org.uk/help-advice/case-management/>

Safeguarding Reporting Procedure

In the event of a staff member, volunteer or club member having concerns about the welfare or behaviour towards a child, young person or vulnerable adult, the following process should be followed:

The concerns must be passed to the club Welfare Officer by the concerned person completing a safeguarding incident form (the Club Welfare Officer will help with this if required). The Club Welfare Officer, in consultation with the Club Manager and Chairperson, will decide whether it is a case of poor practice or a child protection matter. If it is decided it is a poor practice issue, an agreement should be reached between the Club Manager, Welfare Officer and Chairperson how it will be followed up and by whom. If it is decided that the concern is a child protection matter, the club Welfare Officer must report it to Buckinghamshire Children's Services or the Police, who are required to follow their own child protection procedures. If considered to be a possible child protection issue, the Local Authority or Police will take action to protect the child if he/she is at immediate risk of harm or arrange a strategy meeting to agree how the concern will be investigated. In some cases, a club representative may be required to attend the meeting. BSC will be advised by Children's Services or the Police whether the alleged perpetrator can be informed depending on the individual circumstances of the case.

The club Welfare Officer is responsible for recording information about the concern, including the outcome. The Club Manager is responsible for ensuring that reports are stored securely and confidentially in accordance with GDPR requirements. It is recognised that the child's welfare is paramount and their safeguarding needs are always the priority. However, as safeguarding concerns are usually of a sensitive nature and have consequences for those involved, Beaconsfield Squash & Racketball Club aims to maintain high professional standards and levels of confidentiality.
